OTHER, Determination of Consumption When Meter Does Not Register Properly

Effective date: Mar 1996

Ordinance Section: 94-83

If there is evidence that the system's meter is broken or has been tampered with or the meter for any cause does not properly register, the customer's account shall be charged based on any reasonable means which the system may use in determining consumption for that account. Such means may include but are not limited to previous consumption, subsequent consumption, determination of connected load, consumption of similar accounts, etc.
